Abstract
Neurosurgeon, historian, and writer, Robert L. Phillips spent much of his life dedicated to documenting the history of health and medicine in Greensboro and Guilford County, North Carolina. Born in Wheeling, West Virginia, Phillips served in the United States
Marine Corps in World War II and later graduated from West Virginia University. He went on to study at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia where he received his M.D. degree. After completing an internship and residency in surgery, he moved to Durham, N.C., where he finished his residency in neurosurgery in 1959. He then moved to Greensboro, N.C., where he lived for the rest of his life. Between 1985 and 2001, Phillips wrote over nineteen books on the history of health and medicine in Greensboro and Guilford County, North Carolina. Using his extensive collection of research materials as a starting point, Phillips established the Greensboro Medical Historical Library in 1985. He continued to collect materials relating to the history of health and medicine in Greensboro and Guilford County, N.C., for the Library until his death in 2003. The Robert L. Phillips Collection consists of research materials, clippings, subject files, correspondence, letters, writings, manuscripts, and photographs related to the history of health and medicine in Greensboro and Guilford County, N.C. The bulk of the collection is comprised of research materials used by Phillips in writing his books. Other materials relate to his career as neurosurgeon at the Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital and his involvement with the Greensboro Medical Historical Library. Some of the subjects represented in the collection include physicians, hospitals, sanitariums, tobacco, smoking, fluoride, integration, medical training, the Moses H. Cone Health System, and the Greensboro Medical Historical Library. In 2013 when the Greensboro Medical Historical Library was closed due to the Moses Cone Hospital needing the space, the contents were moved to the Cone Health Medical Library Archives.

After completing an internship and residency in surgery, he moved to Durham, N.C., where he finished his residency in neurosurgery in 1959. He then moved to Greensboro, N.C., where he lived for the rest of his life.

His first book, History of the Greensboro Academy of Medicine, 1946-1984, was published in 1985. A year later, he wrote The Life and Writings of John Wesley Long, MD, published in 1986. Other books written by Phillips include the following:

- 100 Years of Caring and Progress in Medicine: Greensboro (2003)
- The History of Auctioneering in Guilford County (1995)
- History of Greensboro Area Health Education Center (2000)
- History of Integration of Medicine in Greensboro, North Carolina: Chronological Documentation (1990)
- Medical Happenings in Greensboro from 1826 to 1904 (1992)
- Medical Shoulders During the 19th and 20th Centuries in Greensboro, North Carolina: Biographical Sketches of over 800 Physicians in Greensboro (1993)
- They Did It! 21 Profiles of Non-Physician Heroines and Pacesetters in Greensboro's Medical Care History (1998)
- The Village of Brown Summit, Past and Present (1993)
- Visual Medical History of Greensboro (2001)
- Willett's Bible Study: The Anatomy and Genesis of a Successful Bible Study

Using his extensive collection of research materials as a starting point, Robert L. Phillips established the Greensboro Medical Historical Library in 1985.
